

H E R R I C K

HERRICK, FEINSTEIN LLP'S COMMUNITY ASSOCIATION AND CONDOS & CO-OP GROUPS LAUNCH ONLINE LEGAL RESOURCE AND FORUM FOR RESIDENTIAL COMMUNITIES AND INDUSTRY PROFESSIONALS

New York, October 24, 2012 – Herrick, Feinstein LLP's Community Association and Condo & Co-Op Groups, part of the firm's renowned Real Estate Practice, have created the Herrick Condo Law blog, an interactive legal resource and news feed focused on issues affecting condominium, co-op and residential communities in the Tri-State region and across the country. Group members will discuss issues, cases and current events and offer their expertise, observations and insights to help educate clients, management and other industry professionals.

"Herrick's Community Association and Condo & Co-op Groups are committed to finding creative, effective, transparent ways to continuously serve our clients and keep them apprised of news that could impact their communities," said Partner David J. Byrne, who leads the group and is a contributor to the Condo Law blog along with Partners Richard B. Linderman and Mark M. Wiechnik. "The Herrick Condo Law blog is a forum for us to provide real-time information and advice not only for our clients but associations and industry members throughout the U.S. who are facing a constantly changing landscape."

In addition to Mr. Byrne, Mr. Linderman and Mr. Wiechnik, all of Herrick's Community Association and Condo & Co-Op Groups' attorneys will contribute to the Condo Law blog on topics including collections, ADR, litigation, noise/rule violations, construction defects, rent receivers and more. The blog will also include posts from guest contributors such as management, accounting, insurance and engineering professionals and will take suggestions from readers about future topics for discussion.

Herrick's Community Association Group clients include more than 200 communities and buildings ranging from as small as four units to as large as several thousand units. The group's clients include age-restricted and active adult associations, urban and suburban properties, rural, lakefront and waterfront communities as well as resort, golf and hotel condominiums. The group works with both self-managed developments and management companies and represents both newly constructed and longstanding, well- established associations.

Visit Herrick's Condo law blog at www.herrickcondolaw.com.

Contact:
Shannon Lynch or Hannah Arnold
Linden Alschuler & Kaplan, Inc. PR
212-575-4545