

Patrick Johnson

Associate

pjohnson@herrick.com

New York

(212) 592-1581 PHONE

SERVICES

- Litigation, Business Litigation, Employment Litigation, Securities Litigation and Enforcement, Product Liability

EDUCATION

- Harvard Law School (J.D.)
- University of Delaware (B.A., magna cum laude)

ADMISSIONS

- New York
- New Jersey

Patrick Johnson is an associate in Herrick's Litigation Department, where he focuses on a wide range of issues arising in litigation, including real estate and broker-dealer disputes, and employment litigation and counseling.

Recently, Patrick was a member of the Herrick team that defeated an employer's preliminary injunction request, filed against a consumer products entrepreneur in federal misappropriation of trade secrets litigation. Patrick was also a member of the team which successfully settled a high-profile international dispute over the ownership of Pablo Picasso's Bust of a Woman sculpture, allowing Herrick's client to take possession of the piece.

Patrick has also litigated a variety of real estate and commercial disputes in New York state court. Recently, he helped to secure a preliminary injunction against a property management firm and two of its principals, alleged to have misappropriated income from three valuable Manhattan apartment buildings.

While in law school, Patrick served as the speakers and events chair for the Harvard Food Law Society. He also interned at the City of Boston Legal Department.

Before entering law school, Patrick worked as a sentencing advocate at Court Consultation Services.

Languages

- French

Publications

December 7, 2018

New York Employers May Be Able to Enforce Restrictive Covenants Against California Employees... But Only if the Employee is Represented by Counsel

The New York Law Journal

July 7, 2016

Power Lunch: Overcoming Food and Beverage Labeling Lawsuits

Food Processing

June 2016

SEC Fines Morgan Stanley $1 Million for Failing to Secure Client Data

May 2, 2016

How Food Companies Can Reduce Legal Costs

Food Manufacturing