Andrew Shore advises clients in trusts and estates, art and not-for-profit law.

Mr. Shore has extensive experience in US and international estate planning, administration and litigation, having worked with high net worth families in the United States, South America, Europe, Asia and Australasia. His knowledge and experience encompass all aspects of estate planning needs, including cross-border concerns and multi-jurisdictional families. Prior to joining Herrick, Mr. Shore was with premier domestic and international private client groups of large law firms in New York City.

A former employee of Christie's in New York, Mr. Shore has a keen understanding of the legal issues surrounding art, including tax and estate planning in connection with art collections and the securing of title over undocumented acquisitions. He has also advised the Souls Grown Deep Foundation, a not-for-profit corporation that promotes the study of contemporary African-American art of the South, and negotiated its gift of 57 artworks to New York's Metropolitan Museum of Art, which mounted an exhibition devoted to the donation in 2018 and produced an accompanying scholarly catalogue, "History Refused to Die."

Mr. Shore was raised in the United States, the United Kingdom and Australia.
