Benjamin R. Jacobs is an associate in Herrick's Real Estate department where he works on a broad range of complex commercial real estate transactions involving the acquisition, disposition, financing, joint venture and leasing of commercial properties across a wide variety of asset classes, including multifamily, retail, hospitality, data center, industrial and office properties.

Ben has significant experience working with real estate investors and developers, and has been a trusted advisor to some of the country's largest players in the real estate industry. He represents buyers and sellers of real estate in the acquisition and disposition of commercial properties, limited partners and general partners in negotiating joint venture documents in connection with the acquisition and finance of real estate, and both lenders and borrowers in construction, mortgage, mezzanine and other financing transactions.

Ben also has experience representing landlords and tenants in commercial lease agreements and subleases for office and retail use.

Prior to joining Herrick, Ben practiced at Willkie Farr & Gallagher LLP and DLA Piper LLP (US).
